

Fido's Dog Blog 3

Hello friends! I've had a very busy time since I last updated my blog. I've attended discos (very loud for my ears) and a circus (I didn't think much of the shaving foam but the humans laughed a lot.) I've also guarded the school safe with the SATs papers in it and helped some of the children who were nervous. Nothing like a lick from me to cheer you up!

Now it's half term and I'm busy making my humans relax. I started by insisting on going out for lunch:

And a couple of long walks ...

And I recommend the flapjacks at Ashridge!

Just like you, I LOVE spending time with my friends. To have good friends you must first be one yourself. I enjoy running around playing chase and sharing my toys when my friends come to visit. I'm not so good at sharing treats, I always want to be first. Here I am with six of my friends, waiting for a treat. You can't really see it but I'm doing my best puppy eyes – that always works!
